ABUNDANT WATER.

Practical Completion of the City Water Works System.

INSPECTING THE FINISHED WORK.

A Party of Officials Visit the Head of the [illegible] Water—The New Road—Toll Road to Seven Lakes.

On Thursday, Chairman of Reid received word from Mr. D. McShane, the contractor for the works at Lake Moraine, that the contract was about fulfilled. The overall remaining connections to be settled and gave word to hold a party of aldermen and others in readiness to go over the ground. A number of personal invitations were sent out, and about half-past eight the party started from the engineer's office, in three conveyances, each drawn by a strong team. The party was in the party Mr. Reid, Mr. McShane, Chairman W. S. Jackson of the city water committee, ex-Alderman J. P. Higgins who was chairman of the water committee last year, Chairman Roby of the present water committee, Aldermen Finegan, Leech and Eaton, Water-commissioner Frost, Mr. C. S. Sprague of The Republic and Telegraph and a GAZETTE representative.

THE BEAR CREEK ROADS.

The route to be followed was via the new road through Bear creek canon and the party drove through Colorado City to the mouth of the canon. The dam and settler at the head of the Bear creek pipe line was found to be in excellent condition and there was a good flow of apparently perfectly clear water in the creek.

The new road starts just at the settler and starts up the south sloping wall of the canon at a sharp rise, which continues until after it passes the [illegible] cliff at the [illegible] rocky portals of the canon. Here it crosses the stream and follows at an easy grade along its course hardly detracting at all from the [illegible] beauty of the place. The road is a very narrow one but is well built and is good and firm.

At the foot of Josephine falls, where there is an ascent of nearly 200 feet, the road makes a zig-zag, turning in a wide curve and then winding about the side of the hill almost directly above that part of it leading up the canon from below. From this point on the ascent is very steep for nearly a mile and the road is built in the side of the gorge from 100 to 200 feet above the foaming water below. There are one or two sharp turns, caused by projecting boulders, on which the carriage wheels came nervously near the edge. These obstructions, however, are to be blasted away later.

Above the long slope of rocks down which Josephine falls slides is passed, the canon widens and a shaded valley, with big spruces and aspen groves reaching away toward the summits of the mountains on either side. The aspen leaves at this altitude are beginning to turn into the shades of red, orange and yellow which make the higher mountains so beautiful now. Not very far above the falls, the canon opens out into a wide and fertile little park, called "Jones" park, after a half-demented hermit who lived and died there. Here at "Marions" cottage Alderman S. J. Dunbar was picked up. In Jones' park, Bear creek turns from its southwest course and flows from the west and up into the carriage drive, through open parks and reservoir sites for which all the committee kept out an eagle eye, through aspen thickets of brilliant hues. The road rises until it reaches the top of the divide and branches, the main road going on to Seven Lakes and a steep downward track going to Lake Moraine.

LAKE MORAINE.

Lake Moraine is situated at the foot of an immense amphitheater whose sides are Pike's Peak on the west, Mt. Baldy on the east, and the Seven Lakes divide on the south. In the immense gorge once existed a glacier which drew its icy flow from the snow which fell on the mountains on each side of it and which extended down the valley of Ruxton creek nearly to the Halfway house. With the warmer climate the ice drew back and back until at Lake Moraine it made its last stand and threw down a great pile of earth as a [illegible]. This at first made a big lake, but the water cut itself a channel through the mass of loose deposit and nearly all emptied leaving only a comparatively small pond behind the mound. The work which Mr. McShane has been prosecuting for nearly two years was simply to build a solid dam in this channel and so restore the old lake.

The dam is 365 feet long and 38 feet high, 6 feet wide on the [illegible] and 20 feet on top. It has its foundation in a bed of impervious clay about four feet below the surface of the surrounding ground. It is built of clay and gravel, thoroughly puddled and its face toward the lake is riprapped with a [illegible] covering three feet thick. The lake when full will be a mile long and will cover [illegible] acres, but there is now about fifty acres covered.

The aldermen were driven down to the lake and over the dam to the camp on the further side. The magnitude of the work done is realized in driving over the work at the great [illegible] where the dirt has been thrown out of the sides of the morraine make piles through which it is hard to navigate a team without an overturn. A breeze was blowing cold from the high peak and the visitors for a few moments huddled about a red-hot Sibley stove that was kept [illegible]. Then they sallied out over the dam, inspected the "natural spill way" which protects the dam from any freshet [illegible], went bowling in a very lively boat which Mr. Reid had just launched, and viewed a regiment of men and boys and girls putting the last scrapersfuls of earth in the dam. The question to be decided was this—was it better or not to riprap [illegible] the under face of the dam. Being of loose earth, even the rain and wind might [illegible] disarrange it, and as the cost would be comparatively small, it was decided to do so. Finally Mr. McShane took his men and [illegible] away.

Soon after 1 o'clock dinner was served at the [illegible] house and the eleven hungry men [illegible] to work with such a will on the tender veal and gravy, and mealy potatoes, light bread, that Mr. McShane anxiously inquired of the cook how provisions were holding out, and if he hadn't "better send another steer against any of them stay to supper." But even the breeze whetted appetites and newspaper men can eat and the party at last left the [illegible].

RETURNING THE SAME WAY.

Two teams were hitched up and Mr. Reid, Mr. Dave Durfee, his assistant, Mr. Frost, [illegible] Mr. Barnes, Mr. [illegible] two newspaper men started for the [illegible] of the system on Beaver [illegible] and its tributaries. The rest of the party had been all over the ground before and preferred to stay behind. The road back to the Seven Lakes road and [illegible] the divide. The road is high [illegible] of the great amphitheater and has a considerable grade through a dense forest of spruce trees, which half the way [illegible] and the rest of the ascent [illegible] of green. At the top of the [illegible] delighted passengers could see a sparkling clear cascade pouring down over rocks at the very tip of the bowl, through great trees and dense thickets to the lake, which lay out on the flat far below. This was the flow from the Beaver creek pipe line and a short walk led to the place where the stream shot from the end of the [illegible] inch wrought iron pipe into a little stone lined basin from which it poured down to the lake over an artificial [illegible] ripraped bed. The lake had been rising too rapidly for the men who are at work clearing the dead wood and brush from the basin, so the pipe was only one-third full, but this made a very respectable brooke. When the pipe runs full it will carry 5,000,000 gallons of water in a day which is quite a good supply alone for a city of 40,000 inhabitants. About one-quarter of a mile beyond the pipe-outlet, the McShane ditch was cutting a gully in the lip of the bowl and sending a [illegible] of water full down its sides, but its outlet was not visited.

BEAVER CREEK.

Beaver naturally speaks after Brobdingnagian descent of 800 feet to the top of a divide to find a descent almost if not equally high, but the bowl of Beaver creek is barely 200 feet from the top of the divide. Indeed, the great Glacier Gulch on and the valley of the Beaver, rolled the bowl to and [illegible] its lateral tributaries almost into Lake Moraine. Beaver creek flows along in rather a wide open meadow between high mountains still covered with a thick growth of scrub willow. The Seven Lakes [illegible] about half a mile down the stream from where the road comes over, but a side road turns to the north where the stream can be seen to divide into three, which run up in gulches into the side of the "great snow mountain." The one to the east is the smallest and is Sackett creek; the one in the middle is Bohmer creek and the west one is Beaver creek proper. Bohmer is the largest and carries about as much water as Bear creek, and the other two together carry about the same amount.

The pipe line follows the road closely, running along in the pine and a side hill until it reaches Sackett creek which it crosses on a little sag, through which the pressure from above readily forces the water. At the junction of Bohmer and Beaver creeks the pipe divides. One branch of 16-inch pipe goes 1900 feet up Beaver creek, where it enters a circular basin, made by excavated earth on one side and a ripraped dam on the other. Two valves led through the dam, one to clean out the mud and the other to let the water into the pipe. The water comes into a basin through a ditch which leads to the creek some fifty feet away. The object of the deep basin is to have a constant body of water below the ice in the winter time and it is thought that this will make a good flow possible at all seasons of the year.

The Bohmer creek headgate is a box of masonry, about 8 feet deep and 10 feet square. The creek flows directly into it and a long ditch leads off to each side of the valley to collect gather in all the seepage. The pipe outlet is six feet below the top of the water when the catch basin is full so that it will not freeze up no matter how cold it may be. All the valve handles at the two heads were raised several feet and Mr. Durfee said that this was done on account of the prodigious fall of snow in this part of the country in winter time.

THE MCSHANE DITCH.

The limited time at the disposal of the visitors rendered it impossible to visit the McShane ditch, that much abused piece of engineering which Water-commissioner Frost says is all that saved the city from a water famine this year. Mr. Reid, however, drew a map on the pages of a note book which made the matter clear. The McShane ditch starts on Bohmer creek considerably above the pipe line. It flows over toward Sackett creek, making a big bend to get around the divide between the two streams, and then crosses Sackett creek, levying a contribution on its waters also. The descent of the creek is so steep that this point is above the top of the Lake Moraine divide and the waters pour over to find a reservoir there. The McShane ditch can carry the modest amount of 4,000,000 gallons of water a day but at present it is only carrying enough to keep the flumes along its course damp. So soon as the work of clearing out the big basin and burning the [illegible] is completed, both the pipe line and the ditch will be turned on full force and the lake will be full in a very short time. The ditch will be shut off as soon as the water begins to freeze much but the pipe line will be left running and it is thought that the water as it pours down the mountain side will be frozen into an iceberg that will not melt all summer so the storage capacity of the basin will be about doubled. Beside the flow from over the divide, Lake Moraine receives large contributions from the sides of the tiny big peaks on each side, which supply alone raise fifty acres of water an inch a day. A year ago a pipe was laid into the old lake and a large amount of water was drawn out every day and still, after going down six feet, the lake never lowered another inch, showing that there was a steady inflow of water. The lake will be thirty feet deep when it is full.

THE CITY'S POSSESSIONS.

The city of Colorado Springs owns 800 acres, given by an act of congress for reservoir purposes. This tract includes all the land on the east of the lake to the top of the divide, up Pike's Peak to timber line and well up on the sides of Mt. Baldy. In addition, the city owns lands along Ruxton creek below the lake, for a mile and more, so that neither may be kept out and the water secured from pollution. On Beaver creek the city owns two ranches with absolute priorities attached covering more water than the pipe line and the McShane ditch can carry. At the head of Beaver creek and on West Beaver the city owns a number of valuable reservoir sites.

With the Pike's Peak reservation preventing settling on Beaver creek, absolute control preventing pollution above and below Lake Moraine, and with a pipe line extending from the city reservoir on the mesa to the end of the city property on Ruxton creek, which will soon be built, with absolute water rights and full means of utilizing them, the city's outlook on the water question is an excellent one.

If Mr. Reid had stopped to say all this, The Gazette man would not have been back in time to write this for this morning's paper, but the party almost ran back to their carriages after looking at the ditch for a minute, and started for home. It is a steady down hill pull from the top of the Seven Lakes divide to this city and the trip was made in less than two hours. The aldermen who remained at the lake started home before the others and drove more slowly so that they were overtaken before reaching the city and the whole cavalcade came in together, tired and thirsty for the water they had seen in the process of manufacture.

CLIFF DWELLERS.

The lecture room of the Baptist church was comfortably filled last evening by an audience assembled to hear Rev. C. H. Green's lecture upon the departed inhabitants of the canon walls of Arizona and New Mexico. The lecture was this time illustrated by a large number of stereopticon views of the mud huts and palaces from which the relics were taken. Mr. Green had a number of objects from his collection on exhibition again and they attracted a great deal of attention and admiration especially the mummies.

District Court.

In the case of Silsock vs. The Denver, Texas and Ft. Worth Railroad company, the jury returned a verdict for $5,000 for the plaintiff.

1439. Sarah E. Bethel vs. Wm. H. Hoagland. Trial and verdict for defendant.

Motions for new trial will be heard this morning, and sentence will be passed on prisoners.

Court will meet at 9:30 this morning.

Rio Grande Earnings.

DENVER, Sept. 18.—Earnings for Denver and Rio Grande railway for the second week of September were $188,550, a decrease for the same period last year of $5,038. The earnings for the year to date are $1,852,611, a decrease from last year of $153,010.

REVIEW OF TRADE.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Commercial Summary.

AN ACTUAL IMPROVEMENT.

Conditions Are Better at Most Points—An Increase from Production and Stocks Active—Money Points to Easier Rates in Stocks.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

At Philadelphia business is more active and the tone is stronger. At Chicago conditions are regarded as improved, better and wool, going most with less trouble reported for the week, but an increase in barley, flour, cured meats, cheese, hides, and a gain of a quarter in oats, while receipts of rye and wheat are six times those of last year. At Minneapolis trade is active in lumber and flour, shipments of flour being more than double the rate of last year. At St. Paul trade greatly exceeds expectations, and at Omaha is good, though money is close. At Milwaukee it is observed that the weather has greatly improved the prospect as to corn. At St. Louis the country banks are not drawing as heavily for northern crops, but money is going south for cotton, and at Kansas City trade is satisfactory and money easier.

It is especially noteworthy that collections are improving at most points and that the money markets are on the whole comparatively easy, although the crops to be moved are enormous and the actual movement unprecedented. Wheat receipts at the west for three days of this week have averaged more than 1,500,000 bushels daily, and though exports are only about as large, the foreign demand suffices to strengthen the price, which has risen 7 cents in the past week on sales of only about 30,000,000 here. Corn has declined rapidly, as the fear of harm from frost vanishes, and is 8½ cents lower than a week ago, while oats are 2½ cents lower. Lard and hogs have declined with corn, but mess pork is held by speculation. Cotton has also declined 3-16, for while reports indicate that the yield may be much smaller than that of last year, foreign buying is much diminished and stocks on hand here and abroad are large. Coffee has declined 3/4 cents, while oil has declined 2 cents.

It is a surprising fact that notwithstanding the output of pig iron is almost equal to the largest ever known, the price grows more steady and decidedly better tone is observed in all the important markets. The deliveries of rails to September 1st were but 650,000 tons, though the demand for other iron and steel is better. An awakening is said is the boot and shoe business, although shipments are not at present equal to those of last year, the manufacturers have more satisfactory orders and the feeling is more confident.

The woolen manufacturers are doing well in some branches, particularly in worsted and dress goods, and the demand for dress goods notably exceeds the present supply. It is believed that in all-wool cassimeres as much business is being done as ever. Print cloths have advanced a little and it is believed that this has been the largest season ever known in prints.

The treasury has paid out but little money for bonds presented during the week and hence there is a little increase in their stock of cash on hand, but receipts of part of the gold recently shipped from Europe have strengthened the New York banks in spite of large outgoes to the interior.

The business failures throughout the country during the past seven days number for the United States 210 and for Canada 32, a total of 242, as compared with a total of 216 last week and 217 the week previous to the last. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 190, representing 164 failures in the United States and 26 in the Dominion of Canada.

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—An active demand for American stocks in London and higher prices for those securities in that market caused a strong market here. Resting upon cool customers and purchase were made at the opening, nearly a point above yesterday's closing. There was naturally much realization of the profits of yesterday's advance, which materially checked the upward movement. Notwithstanding this selling, however, prices with very few exceptions were ½ to 1½ per cent. higher at noon than they closed yesterday. Trading in Reading was on an immense scale, the sales in the first hour amounting to 77,000 shares. The crowds of brokers in the stock was not large, but every broker there had numerous 1000 share orders. The next most active stocks were Oregon and Western, Erie, L. & N., Atchison, Northern Pacific preferred, Missouri Pacific, and Rock Island. The sales for the first hour amounted to 250,000 shares and for the morning 385,000.

At noon the pressure of realizing sales slackened and a new force appeared in the market. Traders at once proceeded to bid up prices against buyers, but the bids were made apparently without regard to the advance in prices. This set the market booming. The covering operations were mainly in the Grangers stocks, among which Rock Island was bid up more than four points from yesterday's closing, Burlington 2 per cent, and the other stocks in proportion. Atchison was overweighted by realizing sales and for the most part of the day sold below its level of yesterday, but the rest of the list, even the Grould stocks were forced into the general advance. Toward the close there was another period of realizing which sent prices off materially from the best figures, but the market closed buoyant, at 2¾ per cent. advance on yesterday's figure. Reading at its highest point was at 4½ per cent. and it closed ¾ per cent. higher. The sales enacted on the stock exchange to-day brought to mind days long past when during a single session transactions mounted up in the neighborhood of a million shares and everything in and around Wall street wore a bright and prosperous look. Words can hardly describe the excitement that accompanied the dealings. The sales for the entire day were the largest for years, aggregating 778,000 shares.

Bombarding the Skies.

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 18.—The Lombardment of the skies by the government rain makers commenced this morning at 10 o'clock and is still in progress at this hour, 7:40 p. m. Until 4 o'clock this evening only ground explosives were used, but after that hour a constant cannonading was kept up in the air with balloons and bombs and on the ground with dynamite and rackarock powder. The explosions from the balloons were terrific enough to shake buildings in the business portion of the city. When the bombardment commenced in the morning the sky was perfectly clear but at 3 o'clock [illegible] and are now hovering in the lowest grades of the horizon, though the sky overhead is still clear. The rain-makers feel confident of securing rain before 10 o'clock to-morrow. The city is crowded with people from Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and Old Mexico, who came here to witness the experiment, and the great battle to-day was witnessed by thousands of people who gathered on Water works heights.

Rio Grande Railways.

DENVER, Sept. 18.—Rumors concerning the Denver and Rio Grande continue to be the chief topic of discussion in railroad circles. The Rio Grande board of directors have not yet fully decided on their course. They unfairly want to obtain a victory that will in some measure right the wrongs they claim to have been done them by the Atchison in the Junction Wye and throughout the joint traffic arrangement which the two roads Western to Salt Lake and Ogden (Utah) and [illegible] miles of new line through to Denver mining country to Arizona to the Pacific coast.

The Arizona legislature passed a railroad bill at the last session agreeing to pay up liberal bounds to any road that would construct as soon as practicable a line across that territory. This proposition is in accordance with the Vanderbilt plan for a great transcontinental railway.

When Jay Gould was in Salt Lake City a short time ago he took a great interest in the Deep Creek railroad project and spent several days in looking up facts and figures in relation to it. He at last made the announcement that this scheme is one of the best of western railroading and made arrangements to have General-manager Clark investigate the matter in detail and to report to him by Oct. 1 in New York. He at once hastened to New York and consulted with the Vanderbilts and the Drexel-Morgan banking company, which resulted in a proposition to buy the Junction Wye as the first step towards the organization of the richest and most powerful trans-continental railroad company in America.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—A railroad official whose knowledge probably entitles him to speak by the card, said to-day there was no foundation for the report that the Atchison has obtained control of the Denver and Rio Grande.

"There is not even a traffic agreement between them," he continued, "and I know what I am talking about. The Burlington has expended more than $1,000,000 on right of way occupation of canons through Colorado so as to be ready when the time comes to extend its own line from Denver to Salt Lake. Should the Rio Grande form an alliance with the Atchison such a line would be soon built. The only thing between the two companies is a settlement of the dispute over old contracts concerning the Colorado Midland."

Wabash Difficulty in Denver.

DENVER, Sept. 18.—A Wabash special arrived in Denver this morning headed by General-passenger agent Chandler, Freight-traffic-manager Knight, H. M. Garland, west-n passenger agent at Kansas City, and W. Logan, private secretary to Gustavus-manager Bates. The party is out on a tour of inspection of the road and will remain in Denver over Sunday and then will proceed to Salt Lake City stopping over at Manitou, Pueblo and other points.

BASEBALL.

National League.

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—The Pittsburg could not do anything with Clarkson to-day, while the home team had an easy time with Baldwin. In the sixth inning a combination of hard hitting by the Boston-Bates and costly errors by the visitors gave the home club six runs, a lead that the Smoky Cityites could never overcome. In the last half of the sixth inning Miller was severely injured by being hit on the knee-cap with a foul tip, but he finished the game. Attendance 2000. Score: Boston 9, Pittsburg 3.

BROOKLYN-CLEVELAND.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 18.—The Clevelands could not touch Caruthers to-day, while the Brooklyns batched their hits in the second and sixth innings and aided by the visitor's errors, won a hollow victory. Ely's playing of short was the feature of the game. Attendance 520. Score: Brooklyn 6, Cleveland 0.

NEW YORK-CHICAGO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Tiernan was a soft mark for the New York club to-day. They hit him hard and often. The Chicago team could do nothing with Long John Ewing. He kept their hits scattered except in the ninth inning when they got in three singles. The visitors played a poor game in the field. Score: New York 9, Chicago 3.

PHILADELPHIA-CINCINNATI.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.—The Cincinnatis lost to-day's game by being outbatted by the home club and by making a few costly errors. The visitors pounded Kilroy so hard in the fifth inning that he was relieved. Score: Philadelphia 11, Cincinnati 6.

American Association.

At Columbus—No game—rain.
At Milwaukee—Baltimore 10, Milwaukee 4.
At Louisville, Louisville 9, Washington 8.
At St. Louis—Athletics 10, St. Louis 6.

Long-arm Canning Factory Burned.

LONGMONT, Colo., Sept. 18.—The Empson canning factory was destroyed by fire at 5 o'clock this morning. The fire was confined to the main building used for canning, boxing and storing goods. The office and its contents and a small portion of the stock were saved. The origin of the fire is unknown. The insurance is $18,000, nearly covering the loss. Mr. Empson is expected home from California to-day.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—For Colorado—Light local showers, variable winds; stationary temperature in southeast, slightly warmer in northwest portion.

The Paris press bitterly condemns Emperor William's speech in which he called Napoleon a "[illegible]."

Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British minister, has notified this government that the "modus vivendi" as to the catch of seals in Behring sea has been violated by the North American Commercial company in exceeding the agreed catch.

At Yonkers, N. Y., the family of James Gibbin ate a quantity of toadstools that had been gathered by Mr. Gibbin for mushrooms, and all the members are in a critical condition. Dr. Pyne, who was called, said that there was very little hope for their recovery.

THE LATEST NEWS.

The President By Proclamation Opens a Reservation.

SALISBURY MAKES A STATEMENT.

[illegible] to the New York Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Lord Salisbury has declared the sympathy of England complete in the case of Chili, Peru and the French Republic in conferring upon Mr. Rouvier, the French foreign minister, the grand cordon of the Order of Osmanieh and upon Madame Rouvier the decoration of Nichan Chefakat, an order for ladies founded by the sultan himself.

Associated with this news the British foreign office has received advices from Sir William White, the British ambassador at Constantinople, to the effect that Said Pasha has sent him a report from the governor of Smyrna on the Mitylene incident, with a note stating in urgent terms the Porte's request for an explanation.

Sir William White does not mention the receipt of any information concerning Sigri from Admiral Lord Kerr, on which the report is sought to be based.

The delay in the reply tends to confirm the fact that Admiral Kerr acted under orders and that it was not chance that caused the maneuver. Sigri, it is believed, was selected as an unobtrusive place to effect a suggestive demonstration. If Admiral Kerr received similar instructions Lord Salisbury's explanations may rest upon the fact that the Porte had long accorded the privileges of maneuvering and drilling upon the islands of the archipelago. Whatever the nature of the response, it will not be satisfactory.

The Standard in an article, directly inspired, if not written by Lord Salisbury's private secretary, puts the position explicitly. It says that England under no circumstances will allow Russia to obtain command of the Dardanelles. Immediately the government of the sultan shows itself incapable of performing the imperative duty of guarding the straits, England will not shrink from insuring the difficulty.

A Reservation Opened.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The president has signed the proclamation opening to settlement and homestead entry the newly ceded lands of the Sac and Fox, Kiowa and Pottawatomie Indians in the eastern part of Oklahoma. These lands may be settled upon next Tuesday the 22nd at 12 o'clock noon central standard time.

Excursionists at a Halt.

DENISON, O. T., Sept. 18.—The long delayed news from Washington announcing the opening of the ceded Indian reservations for next Tuesday was received here this morning and caused intense excitement. Now will come a rush of home-seekers as large as that which followed the opening of the last strip with all its chances.

Thousands of people have been camped on the meridian line for days. Hundreds of camp fires have been burning around Oklahoma City and Guthrie for weeks, and the streets have been blockaded by all kinds of recklessly all ready to start for the promised land on receipt of word from Washington.

Companies A and D of the Thirteenth infantry and a troop of the Fifth cavalry are in the new territory driving out the boomers and assisting in maintaining order.

The Indians do not object seriously to the occupation of the lands by the whites, but they hate the negro. In the treaty with the Sac and Fox Indians the words "open to settlement" do not. These words are apt to cause some trouble. The Indians say that they will insist on their stipulation and will not permit negroes to take lands in their country.

Baron Nordenskiold Arrested.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 18.—Baron Nordenskiold of Stockholm, Sweden, was arrested at the Strater hotel last night by Deputy-United-States-marshal Sergeant and charged with robbing the cliff dwellings on the Ute Indian reservation of relics, etc. The information was furnished by Agent Bartholomew who came up from Ignacio for this purpose. The Indians have often reported and warned the Swedish baron. The baron came here direct from Sweden about six weeks ago, and obtained permission to go on the reservation to explore the ruins of the Cliff Dwellers, but with the understanding that he was not to molest or remove anything. Contrary to this it seems that the baron hired out a party of cliff men and went to digging and tearing down these ancient ruins, gathering an immense amount of relics of pottery, skeletons and implements, packing them and shipping by express to New York, where they were to be shipped and that the work has been one of general devastation to these interesting landmarks of a race long dead. The baron is held awaiting the action of the action of the proper authorities.

The Mexican Revolution.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 18.—The revolutionary movement in Mexico is looked upon with the gravest apprehension by the authorities of that republic. A dispatch received from the City of Mexico states that President Diaz to-day called his political counselors around him and discussed at length the impending trouble.

Information received here to-day from Monterey, Saltillo and towns along the Rio Grande border states that the following proclamation was spread broadcast in those cities on the night of September 16, by unknown agents of the revolutionists:

"The purpose of this revolution is to restore the constitutional government in Mexico under the constitution of 1885, to overthrow the Diaz despotism, and after capturing Diaz to condemn him to death as a traitor to his country. From and upon the issuance of this proclamation all Mexico is declared to be in a state of military siege and is placed under martial law."

The document has created a profound sensation in all parts of the republic, where it has been circulated.

General Stanley, commander of the department of Texas, today received a dispatch from Captain Ramsell at Fort Ringgold, dated Sept. 17, stating that detachments from Brownsville, Matamoras and Nuevo Leon were in hot pursuit of Garcia and that he will doubtless be defeated and his band dispersed.

A Physician's Perplexity.

He sat in the hotel office all by himself, apparently in the brownest kind of a brown study. And he did not respond for several moments after a friend had taken a chair by his side and slapped him on the leg. When he did speak, he said:

"Ever happen to go along the river where the wholesale fish dealers are?"

"Why, yes, lots of times," answered the other man.

"You've seen those fish carts there? Hold a fish apiece, don't they?"

"Must—that, some of 'em."

"How many of those cars do you suppose come into Detroit every day full of fish?"

"Oh, I should guess, say, 1,000—I don't know but more."

"That's a hundred thousand pounds of fish."

"Yes."

"I never knew Toledo had so many fish."

"Yes, and Cleveland and Buffalo and Erie and Sandusky. Sandusky has one of all the east-and Milwaukee, Chicago and Chicago. Why, such a colossal army used into every town on the lakes."

"Millions and millions and millions of pounds of fish. All kinds of fish, too, I suppose."

"Yes, all kinds."

"Does seem as if the water must fairly swarm with 'em, doesn't it?"

"It's a bully lie." the strangest thing straightened up and pulled himself around so as to look the other man square in the face "how is it that I go out fishing. At all from the first streak of dawn till the early shadows fall, and catch just one three pound trout. Yes, and, by Jupiter, get chilled to the bone when I tell of that! How is it, I say?"

He continued to glare at the other man for a moment, but, receiving no answer, he lit a cigar and relapsed into a brown study.—Detroit Free Press.

The Physiology of Evil.

In his curious study of the "Physiology of Evil," Dr. H. W. Richardson decides that the men of science finds two natural causes of evil in mankind, heredity and early environment. The operation of these causes is made conspicuous in a novel investigation carried out by Professor Dugdale, of New York, who has been able to trace one criminal family back to the settlement of its first members in America. He has found that from this parent stock has sprung 1,200 descendants. The lives of 709 of these have been clearly followed by Professor Dugdale, the result of the investigation showing that not one of the 709 had escaped the contamination of evil or its consequences. His researches also show that the crimes of this one family have, during the last seventy-five years, cost the state of New York $1,200,000.

Those who are born bad, however, are not always incurable. Mr. Isaac Ashe, president of the Central Criminal saving Dubuh, Ireland, has advocated that inherited tendencies to crime can be treated in the young by teaching useful occupations, which will call into play the faculties exercised in criminal acts. Thus the child of a clergyman may be educated into an honest draftsman; so may the children of several generations of pickpockets be taught clever handiwork, such as watchmaking or other work requiring fingers unusually deft in their movements.—St. Louis Republic.

An Intruder in the Bath.

The true luxury of the bath is best appreciated by people of hot climates. The baths of Kingston, Jamaica, are described by a correspondent as delightful, being long enough and wide enough to allow one to flounder about, and even to take a couple of strokes. They are made of concrete and are filled with water at the temperature at which it comes from the mains just right to make a plunge enjoyable. So clear is the water that one can correctly realize it is three feet deep.

Once in an while, to be sure, there is something which may detract from its enjoyment by the stranger, if he has not become used to some of the other inhabitants of the land. For example, as I was about to take my first jump, I discovered something that looked a bit like a horseshoe crab down at the bottom. Calling to one of the black pickaninnies running about the yard, I asked him what it was.

"Oh, dat's a scorpium."

"Well, take him right out."

"Oh, he's dead, sah."

"Never mind! I prefer my bath without him in it."

A dead scorpion is bad enough, but that is preferable to having a live one drop from the rafters overhead on one's bare flesh, as once happened to a friend of mine.—Youth's Companion.

Ration of the Stars.

The term "fixed," applied to the stars, is a mistake, for it is now known that there is not a fixed star in the heavens, and probably no such condition as absolute rest in the universe. All the stars are in motion, and some of them are moving at the rate of 200,000 miles an hour, or more than thrice the velocity of our earth on its orbit. It might be thought that this constant motion would produce continual changes in the stellar relations and alter the face of the heavens every few years.

But the vast distances at which the stars are set from us destroy the visual effect of their motion and produce the unchanging aspect of the heavens. None of the constellations have suffered a deflection in 3,000 years. Sirius, Arcturus and the Pleiades are still in their places. Although the eighty-one stars in Orion have been in motion, each without relation to any other, the mighty figure is as it appeared to the man of Ur forty centuries ago.—New York Telegram.

THE WEEKLY GAZETTE published today, contains the annual list of lands offered for sale for taxes in El Paso county.

Whether the recent demonstration of the British fleet at Mitylene was intended to frighten the sultan or not, it is pretty sure to make him do some hard thinking in regard to what the British could do if they chose.

In the contests now going on for nomination to the various county offices, THE GAZETTE has not taken any part, preferring to have the matter left to the wisdom of the Republican convention and support the ticket which may be nominated. But in the case of Assessor Perkins we desire to make an exception. The campaign which some men are making against him, (we do not now refer to any candidate for the assessorship) is unfair and he has been unjustly misrepresented. Of all the county officers none has been more faithful than Mr. Perkins, and his ... in proportion to work ... than less. Now that the law ... adequate remuneration, it seems hardly just to deprive him of the fair emoluments which he would receive. It should also be remembered that among the county officers experience is nowhere more needed than for the assessor. Of late years his duties have increased many times over, owing to the growth of the county, the laying out of new additions, and so forth. There is a general feeling that Mr. Perkins' assessments have been made on just principles and without fear or favor.

THE SUNDAY GAZETTE.

Among the strange sights of the Pike's Peak region which attracted particular attention from the early explorers were the curiously shaped rocks which rise on the west bank of Monument creek. They were described and pictured in the official reports, and thereafter formed one of the usual illustrations of the geological text-books. It is a group of these world-famous rocks which forms the handsome illustration which will be given away with each copy of to-morrow's GAZETTE. The peculiar shape, the enormous size, and the isolation of these strange freaks of nature are well illustrated in this choice specimen of the printer's and engraver's skill.

Prominent among the literary features of this number will be a full-page story by P. V. Black, entitled, "The Lynching of the Piney." It is a western story and of thrilling interest.

The second installment of Washington Irving's "First Voyage of Columbus" begins with chapter four and describes the first sight of land in the new world. It is one of the most interesting in the entire history.

In this paper, too, will be found the conclusion of the series of articles on "Journalism," by eminent journalists.

The fourth of the new Stevenson letters tells how the king of the Cannibal islands, with his court, army and subjects, all went off on a terrible fear, and some of the strange and savage scenes that ensued.

In the regular series of art-fashion letters, Ada Backs Cone writes of "Trimmings, which, she says, should be a real ornament, but which are often a mere exhibition of dry goods."

The articles of personal interviews with prominent European authors are continued by C. Sadakichi Hartmann, who writes most entertainingly of his acquaintance with Bjornsterne Bjornson, the great Norse novelist and poet.

For many years the theatrical company, which was established by "the Ladies of the [illegible]" stood at the head of the dramatic profession, not only in Germany, but in the whole world. An article by a writer who is also an actor with a personal experience among the Saxe-Meiningen performers, describes their system and methods and draws an interesting comparison between them and the greatest of English actors, Henry Irving.

The new and complicated Colorado election law is summarized in an article which gives all its essential features, describing the precautions adopted to secure a secret and honest ballot under the Australian system, and telling how to vote, how to run for office, how to have ballots printed and many other things which should be known by every citizen.

Other articles will include: "French Summer Resorts," by Robert De Cerisy; "Home Life," by Bill Nye; "Visiting the Admiral," by Howard Fielding; "The Professor of Universal Knowledge," by Kendrick Bangs; and "Wit at the Dinner Table," by M. E. W. Sherwood.

WESTERN BREVITIES.

Much of the horticultural exhibit at Grand Junction will be taken to the Pueblo fair, and will arrive there early next week.

According to the new Mexican tariff the the duties on live stock have been changed as follows: Horses and mares for breeding, from $20 each to $30 each; sheep, from 35 cents each to $1.50 each; goats, from 35 cents each to $1.50 each; cattle, from $1 each to 3 cents per kilo.

The present buildings of the State Industrial school at Golden are overcrowded. This state of affairs will be relieved about November 1, when the first of a series of eight family houses or cottages will be finished, which will accommodate fifty inmates.

A magnificent six mile boulevard for Denver paved with asphalt, stone or vitrified brick, is what is now being agitated and proposed, by heavy property owners and public spirited citizens of that city. The provisions of a proposed ordinance to cover the matter are complete and have been very carefully drawn.

The Larimer County Fair association is making extensive preparations for the eighth annual fair, to be held at Fort Collins next week, opening on Tuesday. Special rates are offered by the Union Pacific railroad, and, without doubt, all sections of Colorado will be represented.

And Yet They Have to Sing.

The Baptist chapel at Leytonstone was crowded on Sunday because of an announcement that Madam Antoinette Sterling would sing during the service. She not only sang, but at the prayer meeting which followed joined in prayer and delivered a short address. It may not be generally known that the famous contralto is a believer in the doctrine of the Inward Light.

A pretty story is told about her in this connection. She was present at one of the Quaker meetings at Devonshire square, and the brethren and sisters remained some long time without the spirit moving any of them to utterance. At last Madam Sterling got up and sang "O Rest in the Lord," which created no small stir. The clerk afterward approached her, and said, "Thee knowest, sister, it's against the rules; but if the Lord telleth thee to sing, thee must."

It was probably through her recollection of this incident that Mrs. Margaret Lucy, the sister of that old tribune of the people, John Bright, called in her last illness for the "singing sister." Needless to say, Madam Sterling went.—British Weekly.

Getting Oil from Smoke.

It appears that in Scotland there is a company which pays a certain amount yearly to a number of iron works for the privilege of collecting the smoke and gases from the blast furnaces. These are passed through several miles of wrought iron tubing, and as the gases cool there is deposited a considerable yield of oil; one plant is reported to yield 25,000 gallons of furnace oil per week. The sum paid for this privilege is such as to be profitable, it is said, to both parties. The oil thus obtained is distilled, and a considerable quantity of creosol, phenol and some other substances are procured from it, while the oil remaining is used as an enricher of gas for illuminating purposes.—New York Sun.

The Courtesy of Assassins.

It will be remembered that some time ago Mr. Constantine Belcheff, the minister of finances, was unskillfully shot and killed while walking in the streets of Sofia in company with M. Stambuloff, the prime minister. It was thought at the time that M. Belcheff was the victim of mistaken identity, and this belief has been confirmed by the following apology which has been carved on his tombstone. "Forgive us; we aimed at Stambuloff and struck you. The second time we will not fail." General M. M. Trumbull in Open Court.

Babbling Bells.

An extraordinary feature in the career of bells is their undergoing the process of baptism before being used. This ceremony is performed by the Roman Catholics at the present day, who say that the bells thus receive power to act as preservatives against thunder and lightning and storms. An humbler rite is observed in the Protestant church, and the celebrations which take place are more of a jovial than a religious character.—Exchange.

Fairs given to raise money for charitable objects have long been recognized as among the quickest means known for emptying pocketbooks and loading unwary purchasers with all sorts of things for which they have no use, and the prices demanded for the articles are said to be usually quite out of proportion to their value.

In France a man on entering the bonds of matrimony renders himself legally responsible, not only for the support of his wife, but for that of her parents, in case they should become destitute, and the same obligation is incurred by the wife in regard to the father and mother of her husband.

Coal equaling that of the finest Lehigh valley grade has been discovered in Brazil, the veins being from four to twenty-five feet in thickness. The mines are situated at and near Sonorr.

In Bokhara and other parts of Turkestan where native usages still prevail, the customary salutation is, "May you live 100 years!"

RELIGIOUS WORLD.

Notes and Comments by the Rev. James H. Gregg.

A novelty in religious journalism is a funny paper undertaking to apply to the correction of moral and spiritual evils such power as resides in humor. Unquestionably to make iniquity appear absurd and ridiculous is one effective way to fight it. And it must be said that the writers of "The Yam's Horn" are very witty and that a social moral sense enters into their pungent jests. Here is a specimen of their work:

There is no pasture in the devil's country for God's sheep.

The religion that comes from Christ lifts a man's body in the face.

The devil likes to be worried when a wicked man is preached into Heaven at his funeral.

If some people could always be as solemn and as the church steeple they would look [illegible] & Lovell.

The man who blows a tin horn and shouts himself hoarse during a campaign, never believes in excitement unreligious.

Spending twenty-five cents a day for tobacco and a quarter a week to help keep the church up, may look religious to some folks, but it is giving the devil the first chance to your pocket-book.

There is something a mug with the impression of a man who looks happier at a horse race than he does at a prayer meeting.

Here is a paragraph from John Morley's pen which conveys a thought worth remembering: "For one thing, you never know what child in rags and pitiful squalor that meets you in the street may have in him the germ of gifts that might add new treasures to the storehouse of beautiful things or noble acts. In that great storm of terror that swept over France in 1793, a certain man was every hour expecting to be led off to the guillotine, uttered this memorable sentiment: 'Even at this incomprehensible moment,' he said, 'when morality, enlightenment, honesty, Gaiety—all of them—are led to the death at the prison door or on the scaffold more certain—yes, on the far triumphs itself, with nothing free but my foes, I could still cry take care to a child that should come too near the wheels; perhaps I may save his life, perhaps he may one day save his country.' This is humorous and inspiring thought, one to which the roughest-handed man or woman in Birmingham may respond as honestly and heartily as the philosopher who wrote it. It ought to arouse the listlessness with which so many of us see the great phantasmagoria of life pass before our eyes."

Important amendments to the industrial Code of Germany were put into effect on June 1. Many of them were in concession to the demands of workingmen, and in line with the recommendations of the [illegible] commission which investigated the needs of labor in connection with Sunday rest. By the new amendments great restriction is laid upon Sunday labor—great, at least, in comparison with previous German legislation. With the exception of certain technical manufactures, transportation companies, and public concerts and amusements, the observance of a Sunday rest is to be enforced in nearly all branches of trade and industry. The principle is carried further than the mere interest of the laboring man, forexample, it is provided that stores to be closed on Sunday, even if all the work of the establishment is done by the proprietor alone.

Mr. Albert Shaw reports in the Christian Union a superstitious incident bearing upon the attitude of the Catholic church towards the public school system. The town of Faribault, Minn., has a deserved reputation for its public schools, though a Catholic school has also been sustained by the three Catholic churches in the place. But on the 7th of August the leading priest, Father Corry, offered to turn over this school to the board of education, to be included in the general system of the town. Four days later he submitted the same offer in writing, and it was unanimously accepted. He made no conditions whatever, and alleged as his motive in making the transaction his desire to secure for the children of Catholics the superior advantages of the public school system, especially the perfect [illegible] for the duties and responsibilities of American citizenship." The board will accordingly enter upon control of the parochial school building and grounds, under no obligation to retain the Catholic teachers, and prepared to assign the Catholic children of the various sections of the town to the schools nearest them. What lends added significance to this unusual step is the fact that it must have been taken with the approval of Archbishop Ireland. That prelate's thorough-going Americanism has been too often made manifest, however, to cause surprise at this latest display of it.

The Boston Congregationalist says: "It has been suggested by more than one secular newspaper that the relatively larger growth of the Roman Catholics, Methodists and Baptists has been due to their unquestioning appeal to what they claim to be divine authority, residing, in the one case in the church and in the other in the book; and we believe that there is at least a partial truth in this view. Men like to have their thinking done for them. The challenge to individual responsibility in searching out the truth is not attractive. The crowds like a dogmatic leader who never qualifies his statements. But we suspect that with the Methodists and Baptists the earnest evangelism which has carried light into every hamlet east and west is a better explanation. It is our Lord's own word that he who seeks shall find. Methodism has sought earnestly for universal diffusion, and its prayer has been heard and answered. It has cared little for truth in the abstract and much for the souls of individuals, and it has its reward."

It is said that Mr. Spurgeon has the habit of testing the abilities of the more promising students of his college, by obliging them to go up into the pulpit with a sealed envelope in their hands containing the text of their address. On one of these occasions, a student, on opening the paper, found this subject set: "Apply the story of Zaccheus to your own personal qualifications and call." And he delivered himself in the following way: "My brethren, the subject on which I have to address you to-day, is a comparison between Zaccheus and my own qualifications. Well, the first that we read about Zaccheus, was that he was of small stature; and I never felt so small as I do now. In the second place, we read that he climbed up into a tree; which is very much my position now. Thirdly, we read that Zaccheus made haste to come down; in which I joyfully follow his example."

That brightest of octogenarians, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, in his last book, "Over the Teacups," makes this statement of his opinion concerning the use of wine and tobacco: "It is interesting as coming from a man who has used both, who has been in the best sense a man of the world and who occupied for most of his life a chair in one of the leading medical schools of the country. The older I grow the less use I make of alcoholic stimulants. I think tobacco often does a great deal of harm to the health—to the eyes especially, to the nervous system generally, producing headache, palpitation and trembling. I myself gave it up years ago. Philosophically speaking I think self-mortification and self-alcoholization are rather ignoble substitutes for undisturbed self-consciousness and unfettered self-control."

Antiquity of the Water Pump.

The water pump of today is but an improvement on a Grecian invention which first came into use during the reign of Ptolemies Philadelphus and Energetes, 283 to 221 B. C. The name, which is very similar in all languages, is derived from the Greek word pempo, to send or throw. The most ancient description we have of a water pump is by Hero, of Alexandro. There is no authentic account of the general use of the pump in Germany previous to the beginning of the Sixteenth century. At about that time the endless chain and bucket works for raising water from mines began to be replaced by pumps.

In the Seventeenth century [illegible] pumps like the Pappenham engine, with two pistons, and the Prince Rupert, with one, were first used. Pumps with plunger pistons were invented by Morland, an Englishman, in 1674; the double acting pump, by De la Hire, the French academician.—New York Telegram.

About Sailing a Sloop.

The sloop differs from the "cat" essentially. A catboat is propelled by driving sail only; the sloop has both driving sail and pulling sail, for she carries, in addition to the mainsail of the catboat, a headsail called the "jib." The mainsail, as you know, tends to "luff" the boat's nose into the wind, but the jib has the opposite effect. It will be [illegible] & Lovell.

There is something a mug with the impression of a man who looks happier at a horse race than he does at a prayer meeting.

Here is a paragraph from John Morley's pen which conveys a thought worth remembering: "For one thing, you never know what child in rags and pitiful squalor that meets you in the street may have in him the germ of gifts that might add new treasures to the storehouse of beautiful things or noble acts. In that great storm of terror that swept over France in 1793, a certain man was every hour expecting to be led off to the guillotine, uttered this memorable sentiment: 'Even at this incomprehensible moment,' he said, 'when morality, enlightenment, honesty, Gaiety—all of them—are led to the death at the prison door or on the scaffold more certain—yes, on the far triumphs itself, with nothing free but my foes, I could still cry take care to a child that should come too near the wheels; perhaps I may save his life, perhaps he may one day save his country.' This is humorous and inspiring thought, one to which the roughest-handed man or woman in Birmingham may respond as honestly and heartily as the philosopher who wrote it. It ought to arouse the listlessness with which so many of us see the great phantasmagoria of life pass before our eyes."

Important amendments to the industrial Code of Germany were put into effect on June 1. Many of them were in concession to the demands of workingmen, and in line with the recommendations of the [illegible] commission which investigated the needs of labor in connection with Sunday rest. By the new amendments great restriction is laid upon Sunday labor—great, at least, in comparison with previous German legislation. With the exception of certain technical manufactures, transportation companies, and public concerts and amusements, the observance of a Sunday rest is to be enforced in nearly all branches of trade and industry. The principle is carried further than the mere interest of the laboring man, forexample, it is provided that stores to be closed on Sunday, even if all the work of the establishment is done by the proprietor alone.

Mr. Albert Shaw reports in the Christian Union a superstitious incident bearing upon the attitude of the Catholic church towards the public school system. The town of Faribault, Minn., has a deserved reputation for its public schools, though a Catholic school has also been sustained by the three Catholic churches in the place. But on the 7th of August the leading priest, Father Corry, offered to turn over this school to the board of education, to be included in the general system of the town. Four days later he submitted the same offer in writing, and it was unanimously accepted. He made no conditions whatever, and alleged as his motive in making the transaction his desire to secure for the children of Catholics the superior advantages of the public school system, especially the perfect [illegible] for the duties and responsibilities of American citizenship." The board will accordingly enter upon control of the parochial school building and grounds, under no obligation to retain the Catholic teachers, and prepared to assign the Catholic children of the various sections of the town to the schools nearest them. What lends added significance to this unusual step is the fact that it must have been taken with the approval of Archbishop Ireland. That prelate's thorough-going Americanism has been too often made manifest, however, to cause surprise at this latest display of it.

The Boston Congregationalist says: "It has been suggested by more than one secular newspaper that the relatively larger growth of the Roman Catholics, Methodists and Baptists has been due to their unquestioning appeal to what they claim to be divine authority, residing, in the one case in the church and in the other in the book; and we believe that there is at least a partial truth in this view. Men like to have their thinking done for them. The challenge to individual responsibility in searching out the truth is not attractive. The crowds like a dogmatic leader who never qualifies his statements. But we suspect that with the Methodists and Baptists the earnest evangelism which has carried light into every hamlet east and west is a better explanation. It is our Lord's own word that he who seeks shall find. Methodism has sought earnestly for universal diffusion, and its prayer has been heard and answered. It has cared little for truth in the abstract and much for the souls of individuals, and it has its reward."

It is said that Mr. Spurgeon has the habit of testing the abilities of the more promising students of his college, by obliging them to go up into the pulpit with a sealed envelope in their hands containing the text of their address. On one of these occasions, a student, on opening the paper, found this subject set: "Apply the story of Zaccheus to your own personal qualifications and call." And he delivered himself in the following way: "My brethren, the subject on which I have to address you to-day, is a comparison between Zaccheus and my own qualifications. Well, the first that we read about Zaccheus, was that he was of small stature; and I never felt so small as I do now. In the second place, we read that he climbed up into a tree; which is very much my position now. Thirdly, we read that Zaccheus made haste to come down; in which I joyfully follow his example."

Spectacles or Tongs.

They tell a good story of Chief Justice Peters, of the supreme court of Maine, one of the brightest and wittiest ornaments of the bench in that state or any other.

While the judge was still a practicing lawyer he had for a client a farmer named Hanscom, who, though he was well past middle age, had the notion not uncommon among Maine farmers of his age that he was as young as ever and could hold his own in a mowing field with the best of them.

One day the farmer came into the judge's office to look at some papers which had been drawn up for his signature, and as he picked up the first one he began to adjust it in the manner sometimes spoken of by those who use glasses and mislay them as "telescoping."

The judge noticed the action and, seeing that the farmer was holding the paper pretty well at arm's length, remarked pleasantly:

"Your eyesight seems to be failing a little, Mr. Hanscom. You will have to get a pair of spectacles."

"Not a bit of it," grunted the old farmer; "not a bit of it. My sight's as good as it ever was. I don't want 'spectacles' for a good many years yet."

"All right," said the judge; "you'll have to get a pair of tongs then."—Detroit Free Press.

A Spoiled Child.

"English children are so much more childish than ours," said an American mother once. "I wonder why it is."

It is undoubtedly because they are kept in the nursery and do not come into acquaintence at so early an age as ours do. The other day in a hotel rotunda stood a [illegible] darling with her short, golden hair fluffed around her wide face; her short waisted, long skirted frock added to her picturesque appearance. Almost all the men passing by stopped to speak to her. She was the delighted recipient of nickels, cards and bonbons, while she coquettled with all the airs of a society girl. My heart ached, for she was getting all the sweet, dewy freshness of childhood rubbed off so early.

Her father, standing near, encouraged her and laughed at her naive questions and replies. By and by the white capped nurse came on the scene and bore her child away; and she, loath to leave the scene of her conquests, made her exit, biting, kicking and scratching her nurse, while the men laughed heartily at this edifying spectacle.

There are some wise mothers who discourage and endeavor to suppress this precocity, but they are lamentably few in number.—L. E. Chittenden in Housewife.

The Manfaced Crab.

One of the most singular looking creatures that ever walked the earth or "swam the waters under the earth" is the world-famous manfaced crab of Japan. Its body is hardly an inch in length, yet the head is fitted with a face which is the perfect counterpart of that of a Chinese coolie; a veritable missing link, with eyes, nose and mouth all clearly defined. This curious and uncanny creature, besides the great likeness it bears to a human being in the matter of facial features, is provided with two legs, which seem to grow from the top of its head and hang down over the sides of its face. Besides these legs, two "feelers," each about an inch in length, grow from the "chin" of the animal, looking for all the world like a colonel's forked beard. These manfaced crabs fairly swarm in the inland seas of Japan.—St. Louis Republic.

Prussic Acid and Instant Death.

Prussic acid it is suggested, causes a painless and immediate death, and is therefore preferable to electricity unclosing the career of criminals. First make the condemned man unconscious with an anaesthetic, then a few drops of prussic acid injected into the jugular vein with a hypodermic syringe will cause instantaneous death.—Yankee Blade.

Not a Case for Treatment.

A stout, middle aged woman fell on a street in New York, and when some one attempted to raise her to her feet she declared, with tears and groans, that her leg was broken. An ambulance was hastily summoned, the woman lifted tenderly in and taken to a hospital, when it was found that the broken limb was artificial.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Answered.

An amusing story is related of an Irishman named Manning who was at work excavating a ditch on a cross street near Jefferson avenue the other day. A very pronounced dude was attracted to the spot, and in the habitual drawl observed:

"Ah, what are you doing heah?"

"Diggin a ditch, sor," responded Manning.

"Why, thundah, I know you are digging a ditch, but what are you doing it for?"

"For one day's pay, sor."

The dude wilted.—Detroit News.

Reports from Maine say that the woods are swarming with game this fall, and that the sportsmen have a rich field to work before them. Deer, moose, caribou, bear and wildcats abound, and plover and partridge are also plentiful.

At the Court of a South Sea King.

A Narrative of Life on the Gilbert Islands, an out-of-the-way Group of the South Pacific Ocean.

BY

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

A new series of letters by Robert Louis Stevenson, describing his experiences and adventures in the Gilbert Islands. This is a group cut off from all regular intercourse with the outside world, to which no post goes, and where only occasional trading vessels touch.

Life in this strange place is most interesting and picturesque. The articles are full of incidents and anecdotes, delightful character sketches of queer people, and dramatic bits of dialogue. The narrative is as captivating as a piece of fiction, full of color, of movement, of strange situations and pictures. The material is altogether fresh and novel. In these papers Stevenson is at his best; they show in its full maturity the charming style of the most perfect master of English of our day.

I. IN A DESERT SEA. Arrival at Butaritari. Island characteristics. The King's palace not so commodious as a laborer's house in the United States. A visit to the King.

II. THE FOUR BROTHERS. The story of a South Sea chieftain. The King acts as executioner. The harem of a tropical potentate. A prince who was nicknamed "Mr. Coffee."

III. AROUND MY HOUSE. Strange sights from the writer's house in the Gilbert Islands. A sea wall built by the hands of queens. The toddy cutters. Beautiful women of the South Pacific. Only one white woman in the islands. A sample ruffian of the South Seas. The parson of Butaritari.

IV. A TALE OF A TAPU. The King of the Cannibal Islands on a spree. Curious scenes at Court.

V. MORE CONCERNING THE TAPU. Spies about us. Attack by natives. In danger from drunkards.

VI. THE FIVE DAYS' FESTIVAL. Invited to the King's summer house. A concert of native singers. A barbaric opera. A wonderfully dramatic dance. A South Sea topical song. A native who made a flying machine. A magic lantern show.

VII. HUSBAND AND WIFE IN THE GILBERTS. A Paradise of Naked Women." Polygamy in the South Seas. Etiquette among the natives. Scenes in a Gilbertine household.

VIII. THE KING OF APEMAMA. The royal trader. The hero of song and the butt of gossip. The last of the South Sea tyrants. A savage Napoleon. An island chief who owns ships.

IX. HOW THE KING BUILT A TOWN FOR STEVENSON. Constructing a city in a day. Walled by a taboo.

X. THE PALACE OF MANY WOMEN. A retinue of dusky ladies. An evening at cards with the King. A game of royal inventions. A kingly poet of the Southern Seas.

XI. OUR ATTENDANT FROM THE PALACE. Uncle Parker and his sleight-of-hand performance. The royal cook, and how he was disgraced.

Bro J. Edward Burtt, Recently Elected Supreme Foreman.

Bro J Edward Burtt, who was recently elected Supreme Foreman, says The New England Anchor and Shield, was born in Malden, Mass., June 8, 1858, and educated in the public schools. He commenced his business life in Boston.

In 1879 he applied for membership in the Royal Arcanum, being admitted to Mystic Tie council No 255, of Malden. During the same year he was solicited by Bro. W. P. Gaskill, who was endeavoring to organize a lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen in Malden, and on Oct 1, 1879 Mizpah lodge, No. 10, was instituted with thirteen members. Bro Burtt being elected as master workman.

Owing to the crude method then in force in instituting lodges in the jurisdiction, the officers of the newly organized lodge were feebly equipped for conducting the work of the order. This necessitated some one taking an active interest, and Bro Burtt was often found in consultation with the grand officers regarding his duties and those of his associates. His first work outside of his lodge for the order was as a deputy for John Ellicott lodge, No 12, which position he has held ever since, with the exception of the two years he served as grand master workman. In the fall of 1888 Grand Master Workman Tindle appointed him a member of the committee on finance, and he entered the grand lodge at the session of 1881. At the next session he was again appointed a member of the finance committee. At the session of 1882 he was elected grand overseer, in 1883 grand foreman, and in 1884 grand master workman, and in 1885 was re-elected; at the close of the latter year he resigned. Bro Burtt was elected a representative to the supreme lodge in 1885-6-7-8, serving by appointment upon the finance committee at the session at Louisville in 1888, to the vacancy, to which committee he was appointed as a permanent member, serving for two years in that capacity. At the session of 1890 he was elected supreme overseer.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

California Asked to Sow Its Wild Oats.

Proud Of.

The annual report just issued by the official committee of the supreme lodge reviewing the affairs of the fraternity says: "With pardonable pride we note that the increase of membership for the past year is 6,000, or 4,000 above the increase of the last session of the supreme lodge, making now a grand total of 387,000 in the Pythian army. There have been instituted 153 new divisions and the close of the fiscal year there were received applications for nineteen additional lodges (not yet instituted), which properly might be included in this report, making a net gain of 173 new divisions instituted."

A few persons have considered that the order of Knights of Pythias has grown larger during the past year than in any other order ever did. It has just entered its twenty-eighth year and now numbers over 300,000 knights. It increased its members over 40,000 during the last calendar year, says The Knight.

There are 11,925 Knights of Pythias in Missouri, a gain for the term of 2,011, and for the year of 2,256. During the term there were 2,193 initiated, 174 admitted by card and 110 reinstated. The total deductions for all causes were 431. The work of the term is the best of any term since the order of Pythianism was unfolded in Missouri.

The annual report of the grand master of records and seal of the state of Pennsylvania shows that there was received during the year $12,081.75, which added to the balance of this year made total receipts $16,816. There has been disbursed during the year $3,788.28, leaving a balance in hands of keeper, Aug. 6, 1891, of $7,009.92. The keeper of records reports the membership as 44,361, a net increase during the year of 2,148.

The gain during the term just closed in Massachusetts lodges was about 800 knights. The total membership is now 17,000. There are ninety-one lodges, five new having been instituted during the term.

I. O. O. F.

Chicago Odd Fellows' Association. Various Notes.

The Chicago Odd Fellows' association did last year for 330 Odd Fellows who were registered. The office of secretary and superintendent has been combined in one and he is paid a salary of $1,500 per annum.

The project of erecting an Odd Fellows' home in Illinois, first inaugurated by the Daughters of Rebekah, is growing. In fact, so nearly enough money has been raised for that object. All praise is due the ladies for their faithful labor.

The thirty-shortest anniversary proclamation issued by the grand master of Maine, consisted of just twenty-four words, yet almost all that need be said. He is a brief grand master of Ohio is allowed $1,000 per annum for his services and expenses and devotes his entire time to the duties.

Suggestions for a new Odd Fellows' temple, a library and Sunday reading room are under discussion by the brethren of Philadelphia.

Pennsylvania has 92,538 Odd Fellows. The grand lodge of that state has just closed its 72d session.

Manchester Unity has made a net gain for the year 1890 of 21,183 and now has a membership of 640,000.

In many lodges pay no regular stated dues to "sick" by-clergy. They regulate the same to suit the circumstances of each case.

Odd Fellow in Columbus, O., recently took the third degree after a continuous membership in the order of thirty years.

Among the daughters of Rebekah taking an active part in the erection of a temple in that city.

The grand jurisdiction of Rhode Island has over 3,000 Odd Fellows within her borders.

The lodges have 634,345 members, and a relief fund of $2,725,952.

MASONIC.

The corner stone of the New Masonic home at Utica, N. Y.—News and Notes.

Masonic home at Utica, N. Y., the corner stone of which was laid in May last, is rapidly pushed forward. The walls are practically in place, and the roof will be put on in a few weeks, when painting will be allowed to stand for a season, settling and shrinking. Two old brothers just admitted to Masonic home, of Pennsylvania, has been eight years a Master Mason. Another has now twenty-six minutes.

Washington was made a Mason in Fredericksburg lodge No. 4, Virginia, Nov. 4, 1752, in the age of twenty, and continued active fellowship with the institution for seven years.

The General Grand Council of the United States has 11 members under its jurisdiction. Pennsylvania is not a member of the grand council. Comp. Orestes Cleveland, the M. P. general grand master, is a native of Boston, but a resident of Columbus O. He was made a Mason in Columbus lodge, No. 80, in 1863, and served in Mount Vernon commandery.

Grand Master Hacker has attended every meeting of the grand lodge of Indiana for forty-six years, excepting the session called the "Mexican," formed by the Masons of the southern cities and Mexico at the triennial in 1892.

The Masonic temple at Caracas, the capital of the republic of Venezuela, was paid for and furnished out of the funds of the lodge. The president is the "presiding" officer of the grand lodge.

The history of organized freemasonry in this country does not go back of 1730. Indeed, the question is still an open one whether, under robust institution, the date should not be brought forward to 1761.

Idaho has an orphans' and indigent fund of $14,300. Arizona has a widows and orphans' fund amounting to $1,500. Missouri has a widows and orphans' fund amounting to $10,619.

AMERICAN LEGION OF HONOR.

A Handsome Gain Despite the Heavy Death Rate Notes.

Notwithstanding the fact that the unusually heavy death rate caused the calling of five assessments more than the usual number, the order made a handsome gain of 1,049 members during the first six months of 1891. The membership now is about 40,800. During the same time the entire [illegible] paid to beneficiaries is equal to the business transacted during the previous year. The cause of this gain is to be found in the confidence of the members in the reserve fund and in the financial management of the order. The order had practically stood still for several years, so far as showing a gain was concerned, but now seems to be entering upon a season of renewed prosperity.

There were only two assessments for September, the death rate showing a satisfactory decrease, and is now much lower than in the earlier months of the year.

An interesting event in fraternal circles in July was the distribution of the order's surplus reserve fund. On July 1 last this fund amounted to $240,000, and in accordance with the laws of the order the excess above $200,000 was distributed among those who had been members for a longer period than five years. Accordingly 47,000 checks, ranging in amount from 11 cents to $44.60, were prepared and delivered to those entitled to them. This distribution will do much to help the American Legion.

RED MEN.

Pennsylvania to Celebrate the Great Sun Discovery 400.

The Red Men of Pennsylvania will celebrate the Great Sun discovery 400 in the month of October. Monday, Oct. 12, a grand parade will be held in Philadelphia. Broad [illegible] Oct. 13, 1891, the jubilee entertainment will be held in the Academy of Music. Admission is by ticket. The great chiefs of the United States will be present, as also the great chiefs of Pennsylvania and other states. Wednesday, Oct. 14 a competitive exhibition will be held in Industrial hall, North Broad street, under the auspices of the sannapitchship of Pennsylvania.

Some of the most prominent citizens of Atlanta are signing the petition for a new Christian league in that city.

Philadelphia county has eighty-three tribes, with a total membership of 13,707.

A new and handsome wigwam has been dedicated at Portsmouth N. H., by the great chiefs of the state.

A new tribe has been instituted at Lynn, Mass. Lynn now has about 1,000 members of the order.

The membership of the order in Ohio is now over 5,000.

During the Great Sun term just closed seven chieftains' lodges were instituted.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR.

Something About the Order's Condition in Kentucky—Notes.

The report of the grand treasurer of Kentucky shows a balance on hand at the first of the term of two years $6,498.24, and disbursements of $4,903.79, leaving a balance of $1,594.24. Kentucky has 38 lodges and 3,108 members, a gain in two years of 421.

There has not been a suspension of a lodge in California this year for failure to have its assessments in the hands of the supreme treasurer by the 10th day of the month, the time allowed by the law. Other states have been hated for the purpose with which they to send their assessments to the W. O. at last.

They have a by-law in one of the lodges of Baltimore that requires a brother to visit his lodge once a quarter for the purpose of paying his dues. He can't send the money up, but must go in person unless prevented by sickness or other valid reason.

During the term just passed there was a net increase in North Carolina of five lodges and 127 members.

"The above condensed report is taken from the official records of the county superintendent's office, and clearly indicates the wonderful advancement made along the line of educational work in El Paso county. In addition to the above statistical report, it will not be out of place to mention a few things of a general and public nature which have been accomplished, and others now under consideration which have and will in the near future contribute in no small degree toward a still higher standing of our public schools.

"Among these may be mentioned the organization and successful work of our District Normal institute. This has been a powerful factor for good in the school work in the past three years, and the superintendent of this county, with becoming modesty, may say he has been at the head of this institute, both in its organization and in its three years' work.

"A teacher's professional library was greatly needed, and that has been secured and is proving a valuable auxiliary to the teachers of the county in their school work.

"The library is kept in the county superintendent's office, and now comprises eighty (80) volumes of books written by the best authors on the art and theory of teaching.

"A course of study has been prepared for the country schools and is producing marked improvement over the shiftless hazard work heretofore prevailing in the country schools.

"This course of study has now been supplemented and perfected by furnishing every district in the country with classification registers, reports, blanks, promotion certificates, etc., etc. These have been generously furnished at the expense of the county by the kindness of the county commissioners. These and a few of the many things that have been secured in the interest of our schools through the hearty co-operation of school boards, teachers, county commissioners and the efforts of the county superintendent.

"Much still remains to be done, but two things, both of vital importance to our boys and girls, are happily started, and the present incumbent of this office hopes to see them accomplished before he retires from the office, and these are a school library in every school of the county and a uniform set of text books for the whole county, and if possible, free text books.

"For the purpose of considering these two objects, committees were appointed at the Normal institute, held in this city last month. Respectfully submitted,

REUBEN BERRES,
County Superintendent El Paso."

Miss Jessie Fuller returned from a pleasant visit to St. Paul and Minneapolis last evening.

A QUARTER OF A CENTURY AGO

This settled in Baker county, Oregon, near what is now Baker City, a man who has since become identified with the resources and development of that locality. This man is no other than Mr. John Stewart, one of the wealthiest and most influential citizens in the county. In a recent letter he says: "I had been suffering from pains in my back and general kidney complaint for some time, and tried many remedies without any real permanent relief. The pains in my back became so severe that I was confined from attending to my work and could not move about. By the use of a case, hearing, through a friend, of the wonderful curative effects by Oregon Kidney Tea, I was induced to try a box, and from that very first dose I found instant relief, and before using half the contents of the box the pains in my back entirely disappeared. I have every faith in the virtues of the Oregon Kidney Tea, and can [illegible] it to any [illegible]. I would not be without it for anything."

Oregon Kidney Tea cures backache, incontinence of urine, backaches, sediment, bearing or painful urination with scanty and all other [illegible] of the kidneys. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box. Oregon Kidney Tea Co., Portland, Or.

Mr. A. L. Lawton left Thursday night for a visit to St. Joseph.

Mrs. Cora E. Allen and son will start Sunday for Los Angeles, Cal., to spend the winter.

Miss Edith Dabb, a student of the college, arrived from Greeley yesterday for the opening of the term.

Mr. George Schneider will leave to-day for the School of Mines at Golden, where he was a student during last year.

The girls' hall at the college has been receiving a good deal of new furniture during the summer, and is now well equipped for the winter.

Mr. S. A. Jackson is lying quite seriously ill at the home of his son, Sheriff Tom Jackson. He is 72 years old and quite feeble so that there are grave fears for his recovery.

The themes for the services at the 2nd Congregational church to-morrow will be: Morning—"The Book of the Acts." Evening—"Work." The pastor, Rev. M. D. Ormes, will preach.

Rev. Dr. Howbert will hold a special service on Sunday in his church on Huerfano street, at 11 a. m., for parents and children. Subject: "The tender sheep and little foxes." All are cordially invited to be present.

The executive board of the Lutheran Ministers' home, to be built in the Garden of the Gods, will meet next Monday in Denver. At this meeting something definite will be decided upon in regard to the erection of the building.

Messrs. Frank Pearson, Jerry Corcoran, Dick Tibbets and James Long returned yesterday from a hunting trip in the Grand and Bear river country. They killed five deer, and report having caught all the fish they could use.

Work on the new county road which goes from the glass works in Colorado City over into Bear creek to connect with the new toll road is progressing rapidly. Mr. Thos. Ord has the contract and he has a number of men and teams at work.

The state convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet in the Christian church Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. There will probably be a large attendance, and the sessions promise to be very interesting.

Alderman Finegan has just completed, for sale, a handsome stone residence on one of his lots on Summit street, West Bluff addition. It is two stories with an attic and contains seven rooms and a bath. The walls are built of Castle Rock lava with sills and trimmings of Sunview stone. It is quite an ornament to that part of town.

Following is Emory P. Moon's record of the weather for the week ending Sept. 16, taken at Husted, Colo.: Maximum temperature, 89° on the 14th and 16th; minimum temperature, 40° on the 12th; weekly mean temperature, 61.43°. Precipitation for the week .08 inches. Wind, south six days, north one day.

Major Bemick is proudly displaying a silver badge souvenir of the last national encampment of the Grand Army to which he was a delegate and which was the "silver" anniversary encampment of the order. It is a very handsome piece of work and is valuable not only for its associations but because the die has been destroyed from which it was made.

At the First Congregational church, corner of St. Vrain and Tejon streets, Sunday services will be held at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The pastor, Rev. Jas. H. Gregg, will preach both morning and evening. In the evening will be given the last of the series of sermons on "Four Singular Sacred Books." The subject being this week the book of Job.

The cards of Mr. Charles Walker and Mr. W. E. McLain, announcing their candidacy for justice of the peace, appear in another column of this morning's paper. Judge Walker, if re-elected, will bring to the office his experience of the past two years, while Mr. McLain, should he prove to be the lucky man, can call to his assistance an experience of six years in the same capacity.

The picnic of the First Congregational church and Sunday school will leave the Santa Fe depot to-day at 9 o'clock. The train may be taken also at the South Tejon street crossing. Tickets may be obtained of the committee at the depot and at the crossing. Members of the Sunday school will go free; for others tickets for the round trip will be adults, fifty cents; children, under 15 years of age, twenty-five cents. Train returning will leave Cascade canon about 5 o'clock.

The eminent actor, Mr. Thomas W. Keene, will, no doubt be greeted by a large audience next Monday evening at the opera house, when he will appear in a grand production of "Richard III." Eleven years service, constantly engaged in portraying the leading characters in the Shakespearean dramas, certainly gives Mr. Keene a strong claim to popularity and consideration, and wide recognition by the most eminent American critics secures for him a place in the dramatic history of this country among the most illustrious of our tragic actors. It is going since he made his debut as a tragic actor, in "Richard III." He, from the night of his debut, has verified the most sanguine prophecies made by his admirers. He recalled public favor at once. He ridiculed by hard work and patient study. He has overcome the natural opposition to all new exponents of classic roles, and the admirers of his originality and vigor have swelled from hundreds into the thousands in every city in this country.

The Republican precinct primaries will be held to-day. At the head of the local column the time and place of holding them in each precinct is described.

Mr. J. M. Sellers of the Alamo hotel, will leave to-day for St. Louis to attend the conclave of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows which is to be held in that city.

Sheriff Jackson last night received a telegram from the warden of the state penitentiary stating that a convict named Charles Johnson had escaped from that institution and was headed this way, with a reward of $150 for recapture pursuing him. He was sent from Las Animas county about two years ago on a three years' sentence for burglary, and his sentence would have expired Oct. 5, 1892. He is 21 years old, has light hair and complexion, has three cuts on his left hand, on the outside, a flat nail on his left thumb and a scar running to it, a U shaped scar on the third finger and a small dot over the right ear. Sheriff Jackson has notified all the railroad men and officers in the county, and if he continues this way he stands a good chance of being apprehended.

The Patriotic Order Sons of America gave an entertainment and grand ball last night in Durkee hall. The evening was opened with a short programme carried out in the lodge room of the order, of which Miss Gracie Hopkins and Mr. Marshall Steadman, assisted a pleasing elocutionary feature. Mr. M. M. Baldwin of Woodland Park made the address of welcome to the G. A. R.'s, who were the guests of the occasion and Commander Ed Smith responded for the post. There was also an address by Dr. T. G. Horn, entitled, "For the Good of the Order." The quarters were handsomely decorated with United States flags and bunting. In the dancing hall fully sixty-five couples took part in the dance. The hall was also profusely decorated, and bunting of red, white and blue covered the ceiling. On the walls were the inscriptions, mottoes of the order, "Our Country First, Last and Forever," and "We Will Protect Our Free Public Schools." The music was furnished by Barnes' orchestra.

Concert at the Casino.

The special concert given at the Broadmoor Casino last night was largely attended and very highly enjoyed by those who were fortunate enough to be within the charmed circle in which the music of the Hungarian orchestra and its assistants was heard.

The concert was given for the benefit of the organ fund of Grace Episcopal church, and was as on previous occasions in the concert hall. The orchestra was assisted by Miss Kiefler, Mrs. Fanny Aiken-Tucker, and Mr. A. C. Pearson.

Late in the evening the hall was filled to its utmost capacity, the adjoining reading room held a good sized share of the audience, and quite a number found enjoyment not only in the music but in the surrounding landscape from the porches. The entertainment was opened by a lively Hungarian comedy overture of Keler Bela.

Mrs. Fanny Aiken-Tucker found a most appreciative audience before her especially when she sang her last piece, "Ave Maria." A large amount of applause was bestowed upon Miss Kiefler and Messrs. Stark and Pearson, who with Mr. Pearson at the piano, rendered a violin duo, Hoffman's "Idylle." Miss Kiefler's playing has frequently been highly spoken of, and it received many compliments of praise last night. The concert closed with Wagner's popular "Nibelungen March."

La Military Novelty.

A vegetable cartridge shell, which when entirely consumed in shooting is now coming into general use in the French army. The cartridge has scarcely half the weight of one with a metal shell; the cost is considerable less, besides the inconvenience of removing the shell after each shot is avoided. At present the composition of this military novelty is kept a secret.—St. Louis Republic.

NOTICE

To whom it may concern:

Certain persons who are supposed to be interested in other hotels at Manitou and Colorado Springs, have diligently circulated the report that the Sunny Side Hotel is closed for the season.

This is not the fact, but on the contrary, the Sunny Side House is doing a good business and will remain open for the fall and winter trade.

Now, the Sunny Side Hotel has never suffered in its business from the lies that are annually circulated in the fall about its being closed, but its owner and proprietor is getting tired of it, and I, W. H. Rogers, will punish to the full extent of the law, any person or persons who put in circulation lies or misstatements about me or my business, to my injury.
